NOTES

Just recently we heard two young ladies talking over the ever vital question of marriage, one of them expresses her opinion thus. "I would never marry a returned man if he were the last on earth." She further went on to say that all, or rather the most of the boys who had gone overseas had lost the ambition and wanted to sit idle and let the government support them the rest of their lives. In our opinion this is grossly unjust. Those boys the majority of them had good paying positions, they were shaping their lives to a definite end. They gave up practically everything that was dear to them for a military career, for three or four years they lived under the most difficult conditions imaginable, with their lives constantly in danger.

And now they are back and they find themselves out of a job. Some of them it is true were offered their pre-war jobs but at pre-war pay. Can you in truth blame those boys for not caring whether school keeps or not. On the other hand remember the men one could see loafing on the streets before the war. It is true the uniformed men are more conspicuous on account of their uniforms. Yet I doubt very much if there are many more idle on account of the war.

These boys have to begin again to build their lives and to start them from the beginning. Those who have co-operation from friends are indeed lucky, they have faced death without a thought of personal safety except for the grief that it might occasion their friends and relatives, and now they hesitate to begin over and the people who have sat snugly at home in the long winter evenings while the boys were out there in the thick of the battle, discomfort and horrors of trench life, criticize them for their lack of decision. A great many of them have returned with a steady purpose they have chosen their lifework and consecrated their lives to a far more worthy purpose than before. We personally know several returned soldiers who are working and making far more effort than they had made. They found the only way to dull the horror of those years was to fill their lives so full they could not think.

Some lack the initiative, others lack the ambition to make the most out of opportunity. One cannot blame the war for their lack of ambition, when they never had any, neither is it fair to use their case as a general example.

WHO GETS YOUR BUSINESS Why?

DO you know values? No! With the present state of the textile market nobody, except he be right in the business, can pass fair judgment on values offered. Everybody knows that good quality merchandise is scarce, and that every mill and factory making clothing of any kind in Canada today can sell their entire output for export at high prices. Why, then, should you expect them to offer bargains to any Canadian buyer, regardless of the size of his order? Merchants every place must pay the going price for goods.

There is a difference in the price of goods at different places. The merchant who keeps bought up in advance and has the least operating expenses can certainly sell for less.

We are here to show you the goods, not the pictures of them. We expect you to buy only as it suits your convenience. We have extra special prices now on Boys' Suits and Overcoats. See them if the boy is going to need clothes soon, as our present stock will soon be sold and that will finish us in the boys' clothing business.

The Why? of Another Victory Loan

WHEN, on the morning of November 11th, 1918, the guns were hushed and glad tidings flashed across the world, there followed with the Nation's Prayer of Thanksgiving, one yearning query, which found echo in the faster beating hearts of wives, mothers, fathers, brothers, sisters and sweethearts. That query was, "How soon will our boy be home?" And, from France and Flanders, from Italy and Egypt, from Palestine and from far-off Siberia, there came an answering echo, "How soon, how soon, may we go home?"

CANADA caught the spirit of these longings, and at once resolved to satisfy them. It was an appalling task. Shipping was tragically scarce. The composition of the Army of Occupation had not then been settled. And other parts of the Empire as well as Canada were looking for the speedy return of their men.

THE problem was this. The half-million men that Canada had overseas had taken more than four years to transport to the field of battle. To bring them home in a few months was a gigantic undertaking—one to tax all Canada's ingenuity and resources. Canada solved the problem, but it meant crowding into a few short months, an expense for demobilization which it was impossible to foresee.

THEN, too, besides the sentimental aspect of the necessity for bringing the men home quickly the economic side could not be overlooked. That was, to transform efficiently and speedily the nation's army of fighters into a national army of workers.

Need Divides Itself in Two Parts

(b) To provide national working capital.

Obligations to Soldiers

The obligations to soldiers include:
That already incurred cost of bringing home troops from overseas.

The payment of all soldiers still undemobilized. This includes more than 20,000 sick and wounded who are still in hospital, and who of course remain on the Army payroll till discharged.

The upkeep of hospitals, and their medical and nursing staffs, until the need for them is ended.

These three items alone will use up at least $200,000,000 of the Victory Loan 1919.

Gratuities There is also the gratuity which has been authorized, and has been and is being paid to assist soldiers to tide over the period between discharge and their re-adjustment to civil life. For this purpose alone, $61,000,000 must be provided out of the Victory Loan 1919, in addition to the $59,000,000 already paid out of the proceeds of the Victory Loan 1918.

Land Settlement

Act, be loaned money by Canada with which to purchase land, stock and implements. The money so advanced will be paid back; meantime each loan is secured by a first mortgage. Up to August 15th, 29,495 soldiers had applied for land under the terms of this Act; and 22,281 applications had been investigated, and the qualifications of the applicant approved. For this purpose Canada this year requires $24,000,000.

Vocational Training

For this work which, with the Vocational Training and Soldiers' Service Departments, embraces the major activities of the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment, an appropriation of $57,000,000 is necessary.

Those who give thought to our outstanding obligations to soldiers, and to our need for national working capital, cannot fail to be impressed with the absolute necessity for the

The answer to the question "Why does Canada need another Victory Loan?" divides itself into two parts.
(a) To finish paying the expenses of demobilization, and the obligations we still owe to our soldiers.

(b) To provide national working capital.

These national expenditures are war expenses. They will be accepted readily by every citizen who gives thought to the task which Canada faced following the Armistice, and to the success with which she has met it.

National Working Capital

mines and factories.

You may ask "Why sell to them if they can't pay cash?" The answer is, "Their orders are absolutely essential to the continuance of our agricultural and industrial prosperity."

The magnitude of these orders and the amount of employment thus created, will depend upon the success of the Victory Loan 1919.

The "Why" of Credit Loans

citizens to give credit, temporarily, to Great Britain and our Allies. Actually, no money will pass out of Canada. If Canada does not give credit, other countries will; and they will get the trade, and have the employment that should be ours, to distribute amongst their workers. And remember, we absolutely need these orders to maintain employment. If we don't finance them business will feel the depression, employment will not be as plentiful, and conditions everywhere will be adversely affected.

For Transportation

Money must also be available to carry on the nation's shipbuilding programme, and other transportation development work.

For loans to Provincial Housing Commissions who are building moderate priced houses.

These, then, are some of the things for which Canada needs national working capital. She is in the position of a great trading company, and her citizens who buy Victory Bonds are the shareholders.
